A VETERAN OF THE BLACK HAWK, MEXICAN AND THE CIVIL WARS.

CAPT. W. W. JACKSON.

Sufferings Were Protracted and Severe -Tried Every Known Remedy With-out Relief-Serious Stomach Trouble Cured by Three Bottles of Peruna!

Capt. W. W. Jackson, 705 G St., N. W., Washington, D. C., writes:
"I am eighty-three years old, a veteran of the Black Hawk, Mexican and the Civil Wars. I am by profession a physician, but abandoned the same. "Some years ago I was seriously affected with catarrh of the stomach.

My sufferings were protracted and severe. I tried every known remedy without obtaining relief. "In desperation I began the use of your Peruna. I began to realize immediate though gradual improvement.

"After the use of three bottles every appearance of my complaint was removed, and I have no hesitation in recommending it as an infallible remedy for that disorder."—W. W. Jackson.

On this day the two sentries on guard happened to have both walked on their respective rounds out of sight, so we were able to get close up underneath the Island and near the fort.

"A prisoner thrust his head as far as possible between the small bars of a narrow slit in the fort high up from the ground and called out, 'What news of he war, boys?'

"We called out the story in brief of the battle of Antietam, of which our fathers had told us that morning. Just then one of the sentries appeared and shouted to us to keep off.

"Last autumn-I am now a man of 48-I was traveling on a beautiful moonlight night from Cincinnati to Chattanooga. We were passing through the blue grass country, and I stepped out on the platform of the rear car to get the air and enjoy the beauty of the peaceful scenery, which I had never before viewed.

> Memory of Gen. Lee. Soon after the Confederates began to enter the town (Elizabethtown) I met a friend of mine, the son of Dr.

Doyle, who told me that his father had just been sent for to see Lee, and that I might go too if I hurried, says a writer in the Century. It is needless to say that I ran as fast as my small legs could carry me and we found the doctor just starting. Dr. Doyle was a man who had been in communication with the enemy from the beginning of the war, but had so far managed to escape the fate of many innocent men. Two of his sons had been arrested a short time before friends arrived and set them free. The doctor was in his old rig, and, being an immense man, left no room for any one else in it, so we two boys sat on the springs behind. It was on the Williamsport pike, about half a mile from the town, that we met Gen. Lee. He had dismounted and was standing by his horse, a small sorrel mare, which, I was told, it was his custom to ride on the march. His staff was brilliant in gold lace, but he was very simply dressed. No one could have seen that man without be ing greatly impressed with the dignity of his bearing and the beauty of his face. His hair at this time was all most entirely white, and those who had seen him the year before said he had aged greatly in the short space of time which had elapsed since the battle of Antietam. I could not help thinking of Washington as I looked at that calm, sad face. It has been said since by those who were near him that he had no expectation of conquer ing the North, and that, at the most he only hoped to win a great battle on Northern soil in order to affect public opinion in Europe and lead to the recognition of the South ern Confederacy. However that may be, there was nothing about his bear ing which looked like a great hope, Almost Missed Him One day a soldier who had made great ado concerning a slight wound, was brought before General Sherman, moaning and going on like a man who was on the brink of the grave. Sherman had the bandages removed from the wound, and, glacing at it in a skeptical manner, exclaimed, in his inimitable manner: "Why, captain, they came very near missing you!"

Identification by finger-print is gen erally supposed to be quite a modern European detective device; but it ap pears that it was employed in Kores 1,200 years ago. The Rev. Mr. Collyer a former missionary in Korea, in an address to the Anthropological Society stated that he had been able to trace back its use for 1,200 years in the deeds for the sale of slaves. The slave was required to place her hand-all the slaves were women-upon the sheet of paper on which the deed was written, and the outline of the fingers and thumb was traced, after which an ink impress of each of the fingers housands of miles," says General was taken. Teeth and Good Looks.

Prof. E. Symes Thompson, Gresham professor of medicine, in the course of an address at the Polytechnic, Regent street, on "The Evolution and Degeneration of the Teeth," remarked that while the bones of man and animals had decayed greatly during the last 6,000 or 7,000 years, the teeth had been preserved in a much better condition. Teeth were not part of bones, but part of the skin-they were, in fact, dermal appendages. Old people were surprised to find that when the teeth of the lower jaw departed there was very little of the jaw left. This produced what was called the nut cracker physiognomy. Referring to the fact that the crocodile had an animated toothpick in the form of a bird, which removed foreign matter, the lecturer en forced the lesson of the necessity of attending carefully to the cleansing of the teeth, and recommended attention to them at night as being more important than in the morning. In these modern days, he said, no chance was given to the tooth, because everything was cooked for man, and that was the cause of the deterioration of our teetl in modern times. Bad teeth, Prof. Thompson concluded, destroyed good looks.-London Standard.

Reads Like a Miracle.

Moravia, N. Y., July 17 .- (Special.) -Bordering on the miraculous is the case of Mrs. Benj. Wilson, of this place. Suffering from Sugar Diabetes. she wasted away till from weighing her. Speaking of her cure, her husband says:

"My wife suffered everything from Sugar Diabetes. She was sick four years and doctored with two doctors but received no benefit. She had so much pain all over her that she could not rest day or night. The doctors said that she could not live.

"Then an advertisement led me to try Dodd's Kidney Pills and they helped her right from the first. Five boxes of them cured her. Dodd's Kidney Pills were a God-sent remedy to us and we recommend them to all suffering from Kldney Disease."

Dodd's Kidney Pills cure all Kidney Diseases, including Bright's Disease, and all Kidney aches, including Rheumatism.

Cook Island Laws.

There are some strange laws in the Cook Islands, in the eastern Pacific. The population is Maori and each island legislates for itself. The island council of Manihiki, one of the group, has in force an ordinance to regulate village life within the island. It begins by re-enacting "the ancient law of Maniriki as to dogs' and sentencing to death any dogs on the island. Pigs are not to wander at large, and any person going about after 9 p. m. may be arrested and taken to the court house to explain his reason for being abroad. No debt incurred by a native inhabitant is to be recoverable in any court. Selling or giving intoxicating liquor to any native inhabitant is pun ishable with a fine of $50.
